Subject: Monthly Report for June 1958

Following is the report of activities for Yellowstone National Park during the month of June 1958:

General

Weather. Weather for the month was quite unsettled with afternoon thunder showers nearly every day and strong winds were experienced several days. Snow, heavy fog and rock slides made closing necessary for short periods on the Beartooth Highway for visitor protection. The maximum temperature at headquarters for the month was 83° while the minimum was 35°, and precipitation of 3.86 inches was recorded.

Range. The low temperatures and high rainfall extended the growing season on the low range to late June and resulted in a relatively good forage crop there.

Increase or Decrease in Travel. A total of 264,588 visitors entered the Park in June. This is the lowest June travel since 1955, when there were 240,041 visitors, showing a decrease of 12.3 per cent. The travel for the season through June 30 was 321,912 as compared to 347,969 in 1957, a decrease of 7.5 per cent. Trailer travel shows an increase--2,620 as against 2,236 for the same period last year, a gain of 17.2 per cent. The gain for the month is 12.6 per cent compared to the same period in 1957. Rail travel shows a decrease of 18.3 per cent this year over last year for the same period.

Inspections. Alfred Kuehl and Benjamin Howland, Supervisory Park Landscape Architects from WODC, San Francisco, arrived the 2nd. They spent several days in the Park for a ground check of the proposed Grant Village Development and inspection of current and proposed projects in other Park areas.
